the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation 1999). The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the general population, and the incidence of mental health problems has increased in the prison population.

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the mental health needs of prisoners. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for mental health services, which includes a commitment to improve the mental health of prisoners. FOREWORD

With a thought to the early Greek and Roman classical culture, which has contributed so much to our present civilization, we of the Chaos staff present this annual. We hope that readers will continue to find in it an ever pleasant memory of their high school days.

"True to that sacred past,
So brief, and yet so great,
To whomsoever will, these walls
Be henceforth consecrate.
Not fortune's favored child,
But on the immortal, all,
The sunshine of this sphere of light
In constant blessings fall."

—Miss Louisa Simes.

ADMINISTRATION

The Greek and Roman eras produced some of the greatest teachers the world has ever known. These great teachers were the intellectual leaders of their day, and their philosophy has been carried down even to the present with the result that we still feel their influence after these many centuries.

The greatness of men often is not recognized until time has tested their theories, their philosophy, and their ideals. It is not at all improbable that this generation, facing as it does a great crisis, will produce educational leaders who in years to come will rank with the great teachers of the past.

The official board of the Rensselaer School City is elected by the city council. The members serve a term of three years and are responsible for the organization of the schools.

The President of the Board is Mrs. Chapman, a former teacher and a leader in the community.

Mr. Myers, who formerly served as High School Principal in Rensselaer, is Treasurer of the Board.

Mr. Postill, Secretary of the Board, is serving his second term. Mr. Postill is a retired minister.

The ability of our School Board is evidenced by the fact that with the necessary reductions in the budget within the last few years the same high standards of more prosperous times have been maintained.

Superintendent Gale Smith is serving his fifth year in Rensselaer's schools. In these five years the system has profited greatly through his executive ability and good management. Aside from being a successful superintendent he is widely known as an author and publisher of workbooks.

Mr. Cleaveland, High School Principal, came to us this year from Chalmers. During the short time he has been here he has proved himself to be a very capable principal and has earned the respect of teachers, students and patrons.

Barbara Yeoman has served as office girl for four years and in that time has made more tests than a freshman takes during his first week in college. She is never too busy to be pleasant and her efficiency is the marvel of the entire school.

MISS SPRAGUE is the capable dean of girls and sponsor of Sunshine Society. She teaches French and English. MR. JARDINE is sponsor of the Rensselaerien, and has built up a very efficient staff from year to year. He also sponsors our most successful debate team. He is instructor of Civics and History. MISS KRESLER teaches Latin and sponsors our Freshmen. She traveled in Europe and brought back to us many interesting stories concerning the places she visited. MR. BUNDY trains future farmers and sponsors their organization which has done exceptional work this past year. He spends his summers advancing in his profession and in conducting his club work. He sponsors the Freshman Class.

MISS MYER coaches dramatics and has brought to the front much talent this year. She sponsors Masque and Wig, our dramatic society and teaches English. She also traveled abroad. MR. SHRODE has taken on new duties this year. He is teaching Geometry and Advanced Algebra. He also is sponsor of the Junior Class. MISS MARKLE is our all-around music instructor. She has organized a brass ensemble and a boys' quartette. Also she had carried on work with the girls' trio for their second year. She most efficiently sponsored "Betty Lou", our high school operetta. MR. CLARK has this year taken over the Physics class, besides his duties in Biology and General Science. He is sponsor of the Hi-Y Organization.

CLASSES

Education of the youth has been a fundamental part of every great civilization. The subject matter and methods of teaching have varied with the time, the place, and the surrounding conditions, but wherever a civilization has arisen we find some systematic method of instruction.

Palatial school buildings and vast financial outlays for equipment backed by stringent education laws testify to the belief of the American people in the education and protection of the youth of the nation. The very destiny of a country depends upon the instruction offered to the younger generation.

Educational advancement has kept pace with research in scientific and industrial fields. From kindergarten to university we have developed a system of free education which is generally accepted as the very basis of our democracy.

CLASS OF '34

On Sept. 2, 1930, seventy-two furtive-eyed Freshmen were admitted into the stately structure of Rensselaer High School. Little "Waddy" Warner was elected president, with Miss Phipps and Miss Hershman as our class sponsors. After much voting, we chose our class colors, gold and black.

We gained little recognition in our Freshman year; but when we became Sophomores, the class began to show what it was made of. Many of the boys won letters in football and basketball. Some of us even got letters for being such good talkers (debaters, you understand). We won places in the Masque and Wig, Sunshine Society, Hi-Y, Future Farmers,—practically all the organizations in the school. Some of the members were in the operetta, "The Count and The Co-ed". During the first two years the class was outstanding in Latin and Geometry. We sent contestants to the district Latin contests and to the state Geometry contests.

Our ranks increased to seventy-seven in the Junior year. Notwithstanding the fact that the class lost its money in the bank, we managed to put over, without any doubt, "the best ever" prom. The Junior play "Diggin' Up the Dirt" was a huge success.

We have come to our last year in our high school career. We look back with pleasure over our past record and feel that we have contributed a great deal to the school and that the school has contributed much more to us. We also have a feeling of regret and sadness when we think of leaving forever the place where, in a great measure, our characters have been molded.

—Jeanette Rowen.

CLASS WILL

We, the Senior Class of 1934 of the Rensselaer High School, being still alive, but near the grave, do hereby make our last will and testament as follows:

I, Velma Hershberger, will my quiet nature to Harry Bell because I'm sure he needs it. (Comma.)

I, Ralph O'Riley, will my interest in Nub Hemphill's Pool Room to Kent Smith. (He'll have to come in the back door, too.)

I, Mary Hill, will to Wilma Smith my flirtatious ways.

I, Thomas Parkinson, will my stature to David Beaver.

I, Marcella Kanne, will to Alice Blake my curly hair. (Eat bread crusts.)

I, Francis Potts, will my manly physique to Jasper Shaffer.

I, Martha Kresler, will my will-o-the-wisp affections to Norval Rockwell.

I, Rabin Pullin, will my power to sway an audience any way but my way, to Charlotte Myers.

I, Anne Michal, will my athletic ability to Donna Wright. (Don't overdue.)

I, James Reed, will my Henry Ford special to Winifred Burrell. (The automobile is slowly replacing the horse.)

I, Mary Morton, will my cigar lighter to Smoky McGee. (Saves matches.)

I, Elwood Samuel, will my musical guffaw to Lois Lish. (El Basso.)

I, Barbara Pullin, will to Beezie Hayes my artistic aptitude.

I, Edwin Shoemaker, will my red thatch to Red Lowman. (That's the color of a different horse.)

I, Doris Putts, will to Frances Murphy my winning way with men and hope that she will profit by it. (P. S.—I didn't.)

I, Raymond Spurgeon, will my way with the hawgs to Herbert Strawbridge. (Soooo that is not Ed. Wynn.)

I, Lora Elizabeth Rhoades, will my gift-of-gab to George Hawkins. (Be sure to gargle, George.)

I, Robert Strawbridge, will my dancing career to Glen Toben. (Count to yourself, Toby!)

I, Jeanette Rowen, will my studious ability to Frankie Hoover. (However, you can't have it if you go to English Lake.)

I, Janet Sigo, will my WEST-ern ways to Mary Ellen Kirk. (It's all in knowing how.)

I, Harris Warner, will my ability to write good jokes to Tom Hoyes.

I, Jean Smith, will RAND-le to Georgianne Daugherty in hopes that she will become one of his fans.

I, Ray Wortley, will my place on the football eleven to Ben Edwards.

I, Doris Strickler, will my ability to excell in intelligence tests to Bill Thompson.

I, Virginia Thompson, will my nick-name "Gracie" to Lucyl Beaver. (You can't be too careful.)

I, Jean Wagner, will to Marybelle Phegley my habit of sitting in a coupe by the school house till time for class. (That is; if she can get Kurtz in the car.)

I, Catherine Zimmer, will my failing of being late for school to Owen Lutz.

I, Waldo Taylo, will my craze for the fair sex to Bud Rhoades. (On second thought, he doesn't need it.)

I, Barbara Sands, will my typing knowledge to Fern Gaines and hope that she may be as successful as I. (More successful, I hope she makes 76.)

I, John Utsler, will my bookkeeping ability to next year's 4th hour class. (Correction: they won't want it.)

CLASS OF '35

Three years ago, sixty-four self-inflated personalities presented themselves at the gates of the alma mater, and, with a flourish, signed their names as the class of '35. To guide this wobbly crate, Frances Murphy was elected official pilot.

On the next inevitable September 6, these more polished, slightly subdued, and much wiser students took their places as sophomores, and it was now their turn to look down upon the freshies. This year the class became ambitious and promptly joined all organizations and even went in for sports. The officers were Granville Hall, president; Delos Kanne, vice-president; Evelyn Fletcher, secretary-treasurer. One member of the class was a yell leader.

This, the third year, has been no less exciting. At the annual brawl Ed Randle was elected president; Glen Toben, vice-president; and Herbert Strawbridge, secretary-treasurer. In December the class presented the play "Here Comes Patricia." This year the class was represented by several members on the debate team and by two members on the yell team. In the play tournament they proved their dramatic ability by presenting the tragedy, "The Valiant", which won first place. The annual prom staged by the Juniors was the social high-light of the school year.

CLASS OF '36

In the fall of 1932, there entered Rensselaer High the most remarkable class that ever tramped down the hall of the old building. This class was composed of one hundred eleven members, the largest ever to enroll. Under the guidance of Miss Greenham and Mr. Strole, with Ed Kurtz as class president, they entered into the various school activities and passed a most successful year.

At the beginning of the second year Russel Rowen was chosen president of the class. His chief aid was Maurice Karnowsky as vice-president. Miss Greenham and Mr. Strole were chosen class sponsors.

Again this year much fame has been attained by the sophomores. They usually had more names on the Honor Roll than any other class. Several members of the class joined the Rensselaerien staff, Debate team, Chaos staff, and Masque and Wig. Several boys in the class played in the school orchestra. Many of the girls joined the Sunshine Society and a large number of the boys joined the Hi-Y and the Future Farmers Club. The sophomore class also took part in the Play Tournament. They gave the play entitled "The Romancers". The class was also well represented in athletics, both football and basketball. Probably the most notable achievement in this respect was the winning of the inter-class basketball tourney.

CLASS OF '37

On September the eleventh, nineteen thirty-three, sixty-four freshmen entered Rensselaer High School. This class was one of the smallest in recent years, but it made up for its smallness by being very active.

Soon after school started, a class meeting was held with the class sponsors, Mr. Bundy and Miss Kresler. Hank Hoover was elected class president; Martha Halstead, vice-president; and Wayne Comer, treasurer. Gold and black were chosen as class colors. The freshmen showed fine spirit in making a class flag and giving a party in the high school gym.

Several boys went out for football, and three received minor letters. A freshman basketball squad was organized with Mr. Terrel as coach. This team played five games, two of which were out of town.

The freshmen were represented in the Hi-Y, Rensselaerien Staff, Sunshine Society, Home Ec. Club, Chaos Staff, Masque and Wig, and Future Farmers Club.

GAINES AND MALONE WIN POPULARITY CONTEST

Beth Gaines, a senior girl and assistant editor of the Chaos, received an over-whelming plurality in the girls' contest. Beth has figured prominently in activities and organizations, and has consistently given her best effort for the interests of the school. During her senior year she served as president of the Sunshine Society which is generally recognized as one of the major extra-curricular organizations.

Elbert (Bon) Malone, a Sophomore, sailed through the contest to take the winning place as the most popular boy in school. Bon has distinguished himself as an outstanding athlete in both football and basketball. His performance on the gridiron in his freshman year won him a place on the first eleven and a major letter, two honors very seldom awarded to first year students. This year he has gained more recognition as an athlete than any other boy in the school.

DEAR DIARY:

September 11. That fateful day has come! I started to school today. Not a bad set of teachers and how green those freshmen act! Capt. Smith is back at the helm with a new first mate, Mr. Cleaveland. Bonne Voix. (German).

September 15. Was I excited? Went to Lowell football game and we won. Coach Strole was there with bells on; the yell leaders didn't need bells—we can always hear them anyhow.

September 30. Another football game. Did Old Red and Black skin Rochester! I ask you? Mary Ellen Holt was as interested as any two people there.

October 3. This is a picture of me the day I was elected editor of the 1934 Chaos. I will look worse than this when it's done.

October 6. I hear Hi-Y boys had initiation. Prof. Bill Arnott made his debut as a speaker. "The Relation of the Earth Worm to the World Series." What a subject! What a speaker! What a man! What do you think?

October 14. Sophs had a big party but I didn't get invited. I hear everyone had a grand time?

October 19-20-21. Teachers have gone to Institute. I wonder if they won't need a chaperon or something. Anyway, three days of bliss for us'ns.

October 27. Another party. The freshmen this time. Another football game, too. Did we squelch Kentland? 0-0 in our favor. They can't take it—maybe they won't.

November 7. How I wish I were a son! Fathers and sons always get in on all the eats.

November 17. What a day! What a day! I went to the "Barndoor and Bailhay Cicus," —Bud Rhoades, ring-master. I don't see why they wouldn't let me in the parade. They certainly needed another monkey.

November 23, 24, 25. We are going to have some pretty good farmers in Jasper county. I went to the Corn Show tonight—almost suffocated. Too many people wanted to see the show. Cromer captured corn cup, comma, congratulations, Cromer.

November 29. We played our first basketball game tonight and won. Not a bad beginning—not a good one either. Poor Fair Oaks sort of come down a notch—right along with Alma mamma.

December 13. Went to Junior Play, "Here Comes Patricia." Play was swell and so was leading lady if you could hear her. Lois was a little hoarse (colt).

December 22—January 2. Christmas comes but once a year, but when it comes that's 'nuf.

January 8. Was his face red? Mr. Smith fell off his chair today. (Nobody laughed—it wasn't even funny.)

January 12. Stokesberry made speech today. Told students they should be ashamed of themselves for not knowing the good old loyalty song. Tsk-Tsk.

January 13. What do you know about this? Rensselaer won the Senior and Junior tourneys in the county tournament. Two cups came back to Rensselaer. The team must be waking up.

January 19. End of first semester. This is one week when Barb Yeoman won't be my pal. She is the one who helps to type those awe-inspiring tests (I mean awful perspiring!)

January 20. Four-way tourney at Goodland. At least Remington was our consolation (Faint cheers).

January 26. Tommy Parkinson has won a scholarship to good old Purdue. Battle, kid!

January 27. West Side beat us 4 points; best game of the year. ("Oh death, where is thy sting?")

January 29. State School Inspector inspecting today: we couldn't take it.

February 3. Glad tidings from the State Inspector. Oh! that we could have forseen the writing on the wall—yeah, the basement wall. Mr. Cleaveland was irked, in fact, he was ired.

February 13. Play Tournament—latest thing in dramatics. The Juniors were "Valiant." Gin Thompson and Bud Rhoades received individual honors.

February 27. Manual Training boys had open house today. Mamma came and saw Willie's breadboard.

March 2, 3. Sectional Tournament—Nuts.

March 9. Interclass Tourney—more nuts. (Sophies.)

April 2. Track again this year. The boys act like rabbits running and hopping about all the time, but I guess that is called good form.

April 3. Sunshine Society threw a big party. Eats 'n' everything. The evening was spent in playing.....after which the guests departed at a very late hour, et cetera, et cetera.

April 11. Miss Murphy has trotted out her commercial students again for the annual contest. Happy landings, all you little stenographers—and things.

April 14. Mmmmm. Home Ec girls gave a tea for Ladies Home Economics Club and Literary Society. Too bad someone couldn't do a little stunt like that for the student body. I'm hungry.

April 27. "The Youngest". It was a wow (yeah, a bow-wow). Miss Myer is O. K. as a director.

May 25. Class Night. Handed the key to Juniors tonight. Good luck, Jrs., wish you all the success in the world. (question mark).

May 29. Commencement! Just think, we might have all looked like this—and stuff.

—Jeanette Rowen.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Students elected to the National Honor Society are chosen for character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Their scholarship standing is judged for their whole high school career. They are elected by the faculty.

The Rensselaer Chapter of the National Honor Society was organized in 1922 in Rensselaer High School. It emphasizes scholarship and creates the desire for the development of those qualities which go to make splendid citizens in the school and in the community.

The Society corresponds to the national honor society of Phi Beta Kappa in colleges and universities. It was introduced to high schools by J. S. Masters, principal of Central High School, Omaha. Its purpose as defined by the constitution is "to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote leadership, and to develop character in the students of American secondary schools."

Those who are elected into these ranks should be exceedingly proud, for this is indeed an Honor Society.

ORGANIZATIONS

Student organizations and extra-curricular activities have come to play an important part in our educational system. They provide a certain type of training necessary to the full development of young people which is not to be found in any department of instruction in the school.

The activities of these organizations have helped to make school a pleasant experience and have relieved what otherwise might have become a monotonous round of classes. They have helped students to become better acquainted with their teachers and with each other, and have provided social contacts which will always be pleasant to remember.

ROWEN HEADS CHAOS STAFF

In publishing this book the Chaos staff has faithfully endeavored to uphold the traditions of the school and to render a complete record of its life and activities in this past year. They have kept in mind the fact that the tone of a year book should be in line with the general atmosphere of extra-curricular school life. At the same time they have remembered that it should be kept dignified enough to be lasting in its appeal to those who in later years will turn through its pages. With this purpose as a guide, the members of the staff have lavished their ability and have toiled diligently. Most of them were inexperienced, but in every case, lack of experience proved to be only an incentive to greater effort.

The staff wishes to express its thanks to the students and teachers who have helped to produce this volume.

RENSSELAERIEN PUBLISHED BI-WEEKLY

The Rensselaerien staff and sponsor, Mr. Jardine, set for their goal this year, a bi-weekly publication at a reduced cost. This pace was kept until the latter part of the second semester, when, due to unforeseen circumstances, it became necessary to curtail the original program by lengthening the time between issues. Due to a small subscription list and reduced advertising space financial support was lacking.

There were 41 members on the staff. Due to the efforts of a few, various activities within the school were successfully reported. Leaders within the staff realized the importance of a school paper and attempted to produce a worthwhile sheet. The school feels that this aim was achieved.

Several members of the staff gained the honor of membership in the Quill and Scroll Society, a national honorary society for students of high school journalism. This achievement is truly an honor which keeps the standards of The Rensselaerien on a high level.

MASQUE AND WIG SPONSORS PLAY TOURNAMENT

Masque and Wig was founded in Rensselaer High School in 1926 for the purpose of studying the drama. High School pupils who give creditable performances in high school plays are elected to membership. Meetings are held on alternate Wednesdays at which programs are presented by members.

On February 13, Masque and Wig sponsored a play tournament. The freshmen presented "Elmer"; the sophomores, Rostand's "The Romancer's"; the seniors, "Who Says Can't?"; and the juniors won the tournament with "The Valiant". Virginia Thompson and Fred Rhoades won awards for the best individual performances.

On February 28, the club presented a one-act play at the Christian Church for the Ladies' Literary Club.

"The valiant taste of death but once."

MISS SPRAGUE SPONSORS SUNSHINE SOCIETY

The Sunshine Society was organized in Rensselaer High School by Miss Grace Norris in April, 1922.

The purpose of the society is to spread happiness and cheer in the school and community.

During the past year, under the sponsorship of Miss Sprague, the organization strove to uphold the customs and traditions of the past. At Christmas time the society sent baskets to several unfortunate families, and also sent small gifts to the inmates of the county farm. The girls believe that they derived as much pleasure from the preparation of these baskets and gifts as was experienced by those who received them.

Regular meetings were held every two weeks.

Outstanding social functions of the year were the initiation party early in the first semester for new members, and a pot-luck supper early in April.

The Sunshine scrap book was compiled by the members and sent to the state convention.

HI-Y CLUB SENDS DELEGATES TO MICHIGAN CITY

The Hi-Y Club, under the sponsorship of Homer T. Clark, had a very successful year during the past school term. The officers of the club were: Harris Warner, president; Glen Toben, vice-president; Harry Bell, secretary; and Paul Hall, treasurer. The club had an enrollment of about forty boys.

The activities of the club were numerous, and represented about every field of endeavor that could be attempted by such an organization. The club was represented at the Older Boys' Conference at Michigan City, Indiana, by Mr. Clark, Glen Toben, and Paul Hall. This conference was for the purpose of teaching the older members and leaders of the organization new ideas for conducting a club. The organization gave a party for the members of the club and their guests at Wright's Restaurant, in January. Miss Sprague and Mr. Jardine were the chaperones for the affair, which proved to be very successful. Some of the members of the club studied the Bible course offered by the state organization, in the form of a contest, and held during the Lenten season preceding Easter.

The climax of the activities of the organization came when it sponsored the show given by the magician, Phillip Foxwell, of South Bend.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB HAS INTERESTING YEAR

The Dolly Madison Home Economics Club was organized by Miss Helen Hershman in October, 1931. Its purpose is to further an interest in the home and community activities.

This year the club had about thirty members. Initiation was held for all new girls in October. After initiation a "flea" party was enjoyed by all the members.

A very interesting event of the year was a tea given by the Dolly Madison club in honor of the adult Home Economics club of Rensselaer. Special guests at the tea besides the Rensselaer Home Economics club were Mrs. Ernest Lamson, county girls 4-H club leader, and Mrs. Sadie Court-right, County Home Economics club leader.

The State Home Economics Student Club Convention was held in Indianapolis in October. Miss Greenham and two delegates, Virginia Borntrager and Lois Fletemeyer, attended the convention. The meeting was a very helpful and inspiring one.

FUTURE FARMERS AFFILIATE WITH NATIONAL ORGANIZATION

The local Future Farmers Club became affiliated with the national organization this year. The Future Farmers Club enjoyed a very successful year and accomplished several worthwhile projects which were set up in the program of work. Officers for the first semester were as follows: Robert Brandenburg, president; George Lashbrook, vice-president; Delos Luers, secretary; and Glenn Todd, treasurer. The officers for the second semester were: George Lashbrook, president; Everett Bristow, vice-president; DeVere Schaefer, secretary; and Donald Cromer, treasurer.

The Jasper County Corn Show of 1933, which was sponsored by the Future Farmers Club, was a greater success than ever before. The officers of the show were: Thomas Parkison, secretary; Raymond Spurgeon, superintendent; and Robert Brandenburg, toastmaster. The show was judged by C. E. Troyer. A capacity house of 2200 attended the "corn frolic" which was held on the last night of the corn show.

Thomas Parkison and George Lashbrook attended the State Future Farmers Conference January 11 to 13, as delegates from the local chapter. They brought back many new ideas on Future Farmers Club work.

OPERETTA ATTRACTS LARGE CROWD

The clever three-act operetta, "Betty Lou", written by Lida Larri-mare Turner and R. M. Stults and sponsored by the department of music, was one of the most successful entertainments of its kind that the people of Rensselaer have been privileged to see for several years. The setting of the opera was "Castle Heaven", the mortgaged estate of the Pendletons.

The part of Betty Lou, the "Dream Girl", and the idol of all her friends, was acted by Martha Jane Hamilton. Beth Gaines portrayed Mrs. Anthony Pendleton, the extravagant, feather-brained step-mother of Betty Lou and Tony. The roles of Tony and Lola Pendleton, a married couple living under the parental roof were sung by Fred Rhoades and Linnie Byrd Daugherty. Ed Shoemaker played the part of Worthington Brooks, a clever crook. His accomplice, Annie, was portrayed by Barbara Sands. The part of Robert Sherwood, a shy young man in love with Betty Lou, was sung by Robert Wilcox. Francis Potts acted the part of Mr. Lane, the man who played Santa Claus to the Pendletons. Four friends of Betty Lou, Bee, Bob, Jack, and Joe were portrayed by Martha Kresler, Jeanette Chapman, Joe Rowen, and Edward Mills, respectively. A mixed chorus sang as guests at a party in the Pendleton home.

Miss Gretchen Markle, head of the department of music, directed the production. Miss Margaret Myer assisted in the dramatic interpretation and Miss Elizabeth Stoner of the physical education department had charge of the dancing. Miss Irma Greenham of the home economics department planned the costumes and Miss Helen King, art teacher, was responsible for the stage setting.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT HAS ACTIVE YEAR

The brass ensemble, composed of a group of boys who were willing to practice regularly, has furnished instrumental music for various school functions such as the class plays, Commencement, play tournament, and corn show.

The girls' trio has had a very busy year. They have furnished special music for the Primary Circus, Literary Club, Home Talent Day, and Commencement, and have added much to the concerts given by the high school chorus.

The boys' quartet is a comparatively new addition to the music department. For this reason they have not appeared in as many activities as the other music groups but we hope to see more of them in the future.

BAND FURNISHES MUSIC FOR HOME GAMES

The band this year has been a high school band in membership as well as in name. Under the capable leadership of Professor Tonner the band gave a concert every Wednesday evening during the summer. The programs consisted of marches, classics, and popular music.

In the face of a crisis brought about by lack of financial support Mr Cleaveland re-organized the band at the beginning of the school year, and Mr. Ross Rowen, one of Rensselaer's public-spirited musicians, graciously offered his services as leader. Under Mr. Rowen's direction the band has furnished music for all the home basketball games. This service for which the school and community are very grateful was entirely voluntary.

DEBATE TEAM DEFLATS BOSSE OF EVANSVILLE

Four experienced debaters answered the 1934 call, with two other speakers being drafted for positions.

The Indiana State Debating League topic, "Resolved, That the United States Should Adopt a System of Radio Control Similar to That of Great Britain" was used this season. The subject happened to be an interesting one which brought about several enthusiastic arguments as the season progressed.

The affirmative side of the question was supported by Maurice Karnowsky, Loeva Halstead, Rabin Pullin, captain, and Glen Toben, alternate. This team won three victories with no losses. Those falling before the affirmative were Delphi, Idaville, and North Judson.

The negative side composed of Loeva Halstead, Harry Bell, Glen Toben, captain, and Rabin Pullin, alternate, experienced more difficulty. The team won two victories and registered three losses. They defeated Idaville and Bosse of Evansville, but lost to Delphi, North Judson, and Wiley of Terre Haute. The standing of victories for the squad stood at sixty-three per cent.

To wind up the season, two teams were entered in the Wheaton College tournament. The results were not received before the Chaos was sent to the printer.

Next year Mr. Jardine hopes to enter the teams in district competition. A lack of finances has curtailed debating activities for the past two years. As only one member of this year's squad, Rabin Pullin, graduates, the coming year has every prospect of being a successful one.

ATHLETICS

Physical stamina and endurance were considered so essential by the early Greeks that the development of these qualities through organized games was given a place in their social program akin to religion. In time of war it was the strongest and fleetest who could best serve the needs of the country.

Correct physical development is no less important to our civilization than it was to theirs. With the increase of leisure time brought about by the machine age the importance of play has greatly increased. We are becoming more and more aware of the fact that to enjoy life to the fullest we must know how to play and be able to play well.

The spirit of friendly competition sponsored by inter-scholastic athletics encourages participation by all who are outstanding in any particular field, while inter-class contests provide a place for those with less ability.

FOOTBALL SQUAD BREAKS EVEN

The football squad closed a successful season with a 0-0 tie with Kentland in the flashy home coming game which featured brilliant offensive and defensive plays by both teams, and which offered the crowd plenty of thrills insofar as gridiron skill was concerned. The squad won games from Lowell, Morocco, and Rochester, and was defeated by Valparaiso, Crown Point, and Hobart. The latter game was played in an extremely wet field where the element of chance was so great that the resulting score was not a fair basis of comparison of the ability of the two teams.

James Reed, first string tackle, was elected captain for the season, and Ralph O'Riley, first string quarter-back, acted as field general. This season was the last for many of the grid men, although Coach Strole hopes to have suitable material to fill the shoes of the graduating players in the coming season.

"A" AND "B" TEAMS WIN COUNTY TOURNAMENT

R. H. S. completed a rather unfortunate basketball season this year. The team always gave their opponents plenty of competition, but seemed to be unable to come out with the long end of the score. The "B" team made a creditable showing.

The high-light of the season was the victory of both "A" and "B" teams in the Jasper County tourney. Both teams displayed an excellent brand of ball playing to win this coveted honor. Remington gave Rensselaer its greatest competition. Indications point to plenty of promising material arising from the Freshman and Sophomore ranks.
